STATE OF FLORIDA
MILITARY DEPARTMENT
OFFICE OF THE ADJUTANT GENERAL
St. Augustine

31 December 1960

His Excellency, the Governor of Florida and Commander-in-Chief, Florida National Guard, Tallahassee, Florida

Sir:

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 250.10, Florida Statutes, there is submitted herewith the biennial report of The Adjutant General of Florida, pertaining to the administration of the Military Department for the calendar years 1959 and 1960.

This report has been organized into three phases, the first being a narrative report, the second consisting of statistical data as Appendices, and the third phase being the Directory of the Florida National Guard as of 31 December 1960.

It is the intent of this report to provide unclassified information as pertains to the Florida National Guard to proper parties and to make of record material for historical purposes.

Respectfully yours,

MARK W. LANCE
Major General
The Adjutant General

GENERAL

MISSION

The mission of the Florida National Guard is to provide military organizations trained and equipped to function when necessary in the protection of life and property, and in the preservation of peace, order and the public safety, as directed by competent State authority, and

As a reserve component of the Army of the United States and the Air Force of the United States, to be capable of operating efficiently in the event of a national emergency.

SUMMARY

Succeeding pages of this report will reveal a vast reorganization within the National Guard during this biennium. Problems which at first seemed unsurmountable have been resolved. The troop structure of the Army National Guard has undergone a complete revision without the loss of National Guard status in any community within the State of Florida. The Air National Guard has undergone two conversions of tactical aircraft during the reported period, and is now manning supersonic century series aircraft. The Florida National Guard is recognized nationally as being outstanding. Recruiting has been such as to attain and maintain strength allocations as provided by the National Guard Bureau. The dedicated efforts of the commands have resulted in the attainment of the highest state of training since World War II. Fiscal matters, both State and Federal, are on a sound basis, and the facilities of the Florida National Guard are comparable with the finest in the United States. The results obtained during this biennium are gratifying and we may well be proud of the Florida National Guard.

ORGANIZATION

MILITARY DEPARTMENT, STATE OF FLORIDA

The personnel comprising the full time employees of the Military Department are composed of military and civilian, part being paid by the State of Florida and the others being paid by the Federal Government. There are a total of 670 full time employees working directly with either Military Department affairs or the Florida National Guard. A detail of the organization of the Military Department is shown in Appendix I and II.

The State Arsenal, St. Augustine, Florida, Headquarters, Florida National Guard.

ARMY NATIONAL GUARD

The biennial period 1 January 1959 through 31 December 1960, brought about many changes in the organization of the Florida Army National Guard. The conversion of both Armored and Infantry units to the new Pentomic Concept, and the introduction of the Combat Arms Regimental System (CARS), highlighted the overall Reorganization of the Florida Army National Guard.

With the conversion to the new Pentomic Concept, came the major reorganization of Infantry Regiments to Infantry Battle Groups; Armored Infantry Battalions to Armored Rifle Battalions; the withdrawal from State allotment of certain Units; the allotment to the State of new Units; and the State wide reallocation of units, which in turn created major changes in reorganization of Non-Divisional type units.

The introduction of the Combat Arms Regimental System (CARS), was based on the principal of building troops esprit de corps, making it possible for soldiers of Combat Arms Units to readily identify themselves with historic organizations, carry-

ARMY NATIONAL GUARD

The biennial period 1 January 1959 through 31 December 1960, brought about many changes in the organization of the Florida Army National Guard. The conversion of both Armored and Infantry units to the new Pentomic Concept, and the introduction of the Combat Arms Regimental System (CARS), highlighted the overall Reorganization of the Florida Army National Guard.

With the conversion to the new Pentomic Concept, came the major reorganization of Infantry Regiments to Infantry Battle Groups; Armored Infantry Battalions to Armored Rifle Battalions; the withdrawal from State allotment of certain Units; the allotment to the State of new Units; and the State wide reallocation of units, which in turn created major changes in reorganization of Non-Divisional type units.

The introduction of the Combat Arms Regimental System (CARS), was based on the principal of building troops esprit de corps, making it possible for soldiers of Combat Arms Units to readily identify themselves with historic organizations, carrying on the names, insignia, colors and traditions of older Army National Guard organizations, and to do so without interference with tactical organizations.

Ceiling strengths previously levied by the National Guard Bureau continued in force, and concurrently with the reorganization to the Pentomic Concept, it became necessary for each unit to be granted a Priority Aggregate Strength under which it would become reorganized, and be required to maintain, in accordance with Department of The Army Organizational Guides to respective Tables of Organization.

All organizational changes having taken place during the biennium have been officially announced and made of record in State General Orders. As currently organized, the Major Commands of the Florida Army National Guard consist of the 48th Armored Division, split between the States of Florida and Georgia; the 51st Infantry Division, split between the States of Florida and South Carolina, and the 50th Quartermaster Group, comprising the Non-Divisional Units of the Florida Army National Guard. (For current Organization of Florida Army National Guard Units, by Major Commands see Appendix III, IV and V.)

AIR NATIONAL GUARD

There have been no major changes in the organization of the Florida Air National Guard during the biennium.

(For current organizational structure of the Florida Air National Guard, see Appendix VI.)

ARMORY BOARD, STATE OF FLORIDA

AUTHORITY

The Armory Board, State of Florida is organized as provided by Section 250.40, Florida Statutes, and consists of the Adjutant General, the State Quartermaster, the General Officers of the line, Group Commanders, Combat Command and Trains Commanders, and the Senior Air Commander of the Active Florida National Guard. (A detail of the organization of the Armory Board, State of Florida is shown in Appendix VII.)

MISSION

The Armory Board is responsible for the construction, alteration, maintenance and management of all National Guard facilities to include Armories, Camp Blanding, Air National Guard

Base, State Arsenal, Rifle Ranges, and other real properties and facilities required by the Florida National Guard. The Armory Board is also responsible for, and controls forest management, mineral exploitation, game propagation programs, and the maintenance and improvement of the former Federal lands of Camp Blanding, subject to the approval of the United States Government.

The Board meets several times annually or upon the call of the Chairman or Vice Chairman.

POLICY

The Armory Board recognizes the fact that the National Guard is composed of the citizenry and necessarily is an important part of each community. Armories are constructed primarily for the housing, training and administration of the National Guard; however, the Armory Board encourages the use of Armories by the citizenry for community affairs, where there is no conflict with the primary purpose of the Armory. The Armory Board cooperates with certain other State agencies, organizations, and the other armed services, making available portions of the Camp Blanding facilities and rifle ranges for instruction, training, etc. In most instances, Armory Board facilities are made available at no charge or for a nominal sum to cover maintenance and utilities expenses.

ARMORIES

GENERAL

There are presently fifty-one (51) National Guard Armories in the State of Florida, located from Pensacola on the west, to Jacksonville on the north and east, to Homestead on the south. An extensive building program, for the past three bienniums, has greatly improved the Armory facilities in the State. Listed in Appendix VIII is the present status of existing National Guard Armories and facilities in the State of Florida.

PAST ACCOMPLISHMENTS

During the biennium, construction was completed on Armory extensions at Miami and Tampa and these facilities have been occupied by National Guard units. Armories at Lake City and Live Oak, construction of which was started in the previous biennium, have been completed and occupied by the respective units.

Construction has been completed on a National Guard extension to the Gainesville USAR Armory. This extension is for the exclusive use of the Florida National Guard and was constructed entirely with Federal funds.

Plans are nearing completion for the construction of a three unit plus Armory at Craig Field in Jacksonville. This Armory will alleviate a dangerous and overcrowded situation at the present Duval County Armory. The Duval County Armory Annex has become unsafe due to excessive settling on one side.

In addition to the above major projects, numerous fencing, paving, and repair and renovation projects have been accomplished during the biennium.

FUTURE PROGRAM

Certain Armories and buildings are urgently required to house units, to provide storage and maintenance facilities for State and Federal equipment, and to facilitate training and administration of the Florida National Guard. A list of these required facilities is contained in Appendix IX.

OTHER FACILITIES AND PROJECTS

STATE ARSENAL

The State Arsenal, the building which houses the Headquarters, Military Department, State of Florida, was originally the site of a Franciscan monastery and today is one of the most interesting and historic of St. Augustine's landmarks. The stone walls, constructed in the mid-1700's, still stand and form a part of the present building. Through the years, the building has been used as a convent, monastery, and military barracks. Three times it burned and was restored, the final time in 1915, but it was not restored until 1921. The Arsenal has known three owners, the Spanish, British and the Americans, and in 1922, by Act of Congress, was donated to the State of Florida by the United States for military purposes.

AIR NATIONAL GUARD BASE

The Florida National Guard Air Base is located at Thomas Cole Imeson Airport in Jacksonville and is one of the finest in the country. The facilities consist of a hangar, administration building, warehouses, rocket storage building, flight simulator and numerous other improvements. The facilities are valued in excess of $2,000,000.00 and were constructed entirely with Federal funds.

RANGES

On 21 March 1960, the National Guard Bureau directed that all familiarization and qualification carbine and rifle firing by National Guardsmen would be accomplished on twenty-five (25) meter ranges and that existing known distance ranges would be converted to twenty-five (25) meter, where practicable, prior to 31 December 1960.

By 1 November 1960, the twenty-five (25) meter ranges at Camp Blanding with thirty (30) firing points, and at Silver Lake (Tallahassee) with eighteen (18) firing points, had been completed. An agreement has been consummated with the Air Force at MacDill Air Force Base, Tampa, to utilize the existing twenty-five (25) meter range for troops in the Tampa area. It is anticipated that the conversion of the Avon Park rifle range and the construction of the Ocala Forest rifle range will be finalized prior to 31 December 1960.

CAMP BLANDING

HISTORY

Thirty thousand acres in Clay County were purchased in 1939 by the Armory Board as a campsite for the Florida National Guard. All usable material salvaged from the former campsite, Camp Foster near Jacksonville, was moved to the new area and utilized in the construction of mess halls, latrines, and warehouses.

With mobilization for World War II, the War Department leased Camp Blanding from the Board and constructed a large cantonment area. An additional 40,000 acres contiguous to the State lands were purchased by the War Department and added to the facilities.

The State lands were returned to the Armory Board at the end of the war, and a right-of-entry into the Federal area was obtained. Later Public Law 493 was passed by the Congress on 14 July 1954, which deeded the 40,000 acres of surplus Federal land to the Board with stipulations that the lands be maintained as a military reservation, and that a forest management program be instituted. The District Engineer was appointed representative of the Secretary of the Army to approve all expenditures incident to the former Federal lands. Surplus in revenue is divided equally between the Armory Board and the Federal Government.

UTILIZATION

National Guard

The Camp Blanding Military Reservation is utilized for the training of troops of the Florida National Guard; the receipt, storage and issue of Federal property, and all field maintenance of equipment used by the Florida National Guard.

Training consists of marksmanship training in small arms and machine guns, subcaliber tank firing, field exercises, map problems, and command post exercises. The range facilities include a 25 meter rifle range, 600 yard rifle ranges, pistol ranges, machine gun ranges, and tank firing tables.

During the biennium, the ranges were utilized by the Florida National Guard approximately 90 days with an estimated 16,500 man days of firing. Approximately 75 unit weekends of field problems and command post exercises were held, and in addition, the Camp Blanding facilities were utilized for quartering and feeding troops.

Certain buildings at Camp Blanding are utilized to warehouse and issue Federal property for use by units of the Florida National Guard, the Warehouse Branch of the United States Property and Fiscal Officer being located at Camp Blanding.

The office of the State Maintenance Officer and the Combined Field Maintenance Shops are also located at Camp Blanding. Here, maintenance and repairs beyond the capability of Unit personnel, are performed on vehicles, weapons, and other Federal equipment utilized by the Florida National Guard.

U. S. Army Reserves

The Armory Board leased a parcel of land to the U. S. Army Reserves on 1 June 1960, to be utilized as an outdoor training area. This area is located between Greble and Treet Roads and Magnolia Lake, and comprises approximately 750 acres. The training area provides the Army Reserve Units in the northeast section of the State, a suitable area heretofore not available, for weekend training assemblies, bivouacs, etc. Joint utilization by the Florida National Guard is stipulated in the lease, with coordination of use being vested in the Commanding General, 48th Armored Division.

Other Services

In addition to the Florida National Guard, other branches of the Armed Forces are permitted to utilize the small arms ranges at Camp Blanding through a maintenance agreement. These other services consist of the U. S. Army Reserve, Reserve Officers Training Corps, U. S. Air Force, U. S. Navy, U. S. Naval Reserve, U. S. Marine Corps, U. S. Marine Corps Reserve, and U. S. Coast Guard, and during the biennium, they utilized the ranges approximately 265 days for an estimated 12,800 man days of firing.

Navy Bombing Range

The Armory Board issued a special permit to the U. S. Atlantic Fleet, Fleet Air, Jacksonville Naval Air Station, authorizing the use of a portion of the old south impact area, on Camp Blanding, for the installation of a bombing target. The Navy presently uses this area for "loft bombing" in the training of pilots.

Florida Development Commission

During the biennium, the Florida Development Commission continued to utilize numerous buildings and several paved areas for the storage of surplus property, which it issues to institutions within the State of Florida. The Commission is in the process of moving to new facilities south of Starke.

Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission

Under an agreement between the Armory Board, and the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, portions of Camp Blanding were opened to controlled public hunting beginning in November 1956. During the hunt period 21 November 1959 through 10 January 1960, with 5,250 man-hunt days, 18 deer, 63 turkey, 1,588 quail, 720 cat squirrels, 71 fox squirrels, and 24 hogs were killed on Camp Blanding.

The 1959-60 hunt season showed a decrease in deer, fox squirrels and hogs killed, over the previous season, with an increase in other game killed.

State Beverage Department of Florida

The Armory Board issued a use permit to the State Beverage Department of Florida in August 1960, for four buildings at Camp Blanding. This agreement permits the State Beverage Department to conduct schools, refresher courses, and field problems for their agents. Under the terms of the permit, the Beverage department pays a monthly sum of twenty-five dollars ($25.00) to defray the cost of water and electricity consumed incident to use of the premises.

Clay County Development Authority

The Armory Board entered into an agreement with the Clay County Development Authority, (a State agency), on 24 August 1959, setting aside a parcel of land for development, by the Clay County Development Authority, of a youth recreation area. This parcel of land is located adjacent to and along the southwesterly shore of Kingsley Lake and consists of approximately six hundred (600) acres. As of this printing, no improvements have been made to this area.

School Boy Patrol

During the summer of 1959, and again in 1960, the Armory Board made available, upon the request of the Sheriff of Duval County, barracks and other facilities of Camp Blanding for the use of the Duval County School Boy Patrol. Each year, a two weeks encampment was held for the School Boy Patrol by the Duval County Sheriff's Office, with several hundred boys in attendance.

Houston Texas Gas and Oil Corporation

An easement for a right-of-way for the construction of an underground gas pipeline was granted to the Houston Texas Gas and Oil Corporation by the Armory Board on 17 February 1959. This pipeline forms a link in the statewide natural gas distribution system, and is located southwest of Treet Road, running approximately one and one quarter ($1\frac{1}{4}$) miles parallel with Treet Road across the southwest corner of Camp Blanding.

FOREST MANAGEMENT OPERATION

General

Under the provisions of Public Law 493, and the deed conveying the Federal lands of Camp Blanding to the Armory Board, the Board is required to maintain the lands as a military reservation, implement a forest management program, and continue improvements.

Accomplishments

The Armory Board has established a good forest management program, and in cooperation with the Florida Forest Service, a letter agreement with the Florida Board of Forestry caused a slash pine plantation, for the production of seed trees, to be established. A continuous program of timber sales and replanting is in operation, under the supervision of a full time forester. Planting is done by a random method rather than in a conventional pattern, in order to keep the forest usable for military training. Many miles of fencing and access roads have been constructed with numerous drainage structures installed to afford passage across streams.

MINING OPERATION

Subsequent to World War II, the Bureau of Mines, and E. I. duPont de Nemours and Company extensively prospected in Florida for a commercially mineable source of ilmenite, a black, sand like substance used in the manufacture of titanium oxide, which in turn, is used in the manufacture of white pigment for the color and paint industry. duPont discovered, on the Camp Blanding lands, an indication of a concentration of ilmenite large enough to mine commercially.

In December 1947, the Armory Board entered into an agreement with duPont, whereby duPont constructed wet mill and concentrating plant facilities, (known as Trail Ridge Mine), on the State lands of Camp Blanding, and commenced mining and processing ilmenite.

In March 1955, subsequent to the deeding of the Federal lands of Camp Blanding to the Armory Board, the Armory Board entered into a supplemental agreement with duPont for mining on the former Federal lands. duPont owned the land adjoining Camp Blanding to the north and had a mine in operation on this property, (known as Highlands Mine). Under the terms of the aforementioned agreement, duPont moved the Highlands Mine onto the former Federal lands of Camp Blanding, and commenced mining in a southerly direction. Minerals, in addition to ilmenite, were found in both mine locations in commercially mineable quantities, the most important of these being staurolite and zircon.

Under the aforesaid agreements, the Armory Board is paid a royalty, semi-annually, on each ton of minerals removed from Camp Blanding by duPont. The royalty from the Trail Ridge Mine goes entirely to the Armory Board, and the royalty from the Highlands Mine is divided equally between the Armory Board, and the United States of America.

During the period 1 January 1959 through 31 December 1959, 190,500 tons of ilmenite, 87,911 tons of staurolite, and 41,426 tons of zircon were removed from Camp Blanding by duPont.

CONSTRUCTION AND SALVAGE

During the biennium, twenty-one (21) World War II frame buildings were salvaged, and removed as no longer usable or repairable.

Constructed during the biennium, were an addition to the Combined Field Maintenance Shop, a building to house the State Maintenance Officer and his staff, and a building to house Organizational Maintenance Shop No. 7.

NAMING OF LAKES AND RANGES

The Armory Board adopted a resolution, whereby "Sand Hill Lake" was renamed "Lowry Lake", in honor of Lt. General Sumter L. Lowry (Retired), and the known distance rifle ranges were named "Hutchison Range", in honor of Lt. General Joseph C. Hutchison (Retired).

FUNDS

APPROPRIATED FUNDS

Disbursements of General Revenue Funds are based on the appropriation made by the Florida State Legislature.

ARMORY BOARD TRUST FUND

The Armory Board Trust Fund, established under the provisions of Chapter 250.41, Florida Statutes, is used for the management, maintenance, and operation of the Armory Board properties, exclusive of the former Federal lands at Camp Blanding. This fund derives its income from mining royalties, sale of timber products, sale of salvage materials, and the division of revenue from the Camp Blanding Management Fund.

CAMP BLANDING MANAGEMENT FUND

The Camp Blanding Management Fund is established under the provisions of Chapter 250.41, Florida Statutes, 1949, and an agreement between the Armory Board, State of Florida, and the United States of America, dated 24 January 1955, this agreement being required by Public Law 493, 83rd Congress, approved 14 July 1954, (68 Statute 474). This fund is used for the management, maintenance and operation of the former Federal lands at Camp Blanding, with all expenditures requiring approval of the U. S. District Engineer. The income of this fund is derived from mining royalties and sale of timber products, the net of which is annually divided equally between the Armory Board, and the United States Government.

SERVICE CONTRACTS

The Military Department has entered into service contracts with the United States Government, whereby the United States reimburses the Armory Board for 75 per cent of the expenses of maintenance and operation of facilities occupied by Federal functions of the Florida National Guard. Among these facilities are the State Arsenal, the Air National Guard Base, Organizational Maintenance Shops, and portions of Camp Blanding.

DISBURSEMENTS AND BUDGETS

For disbursements for the past biennium, and budgets for the coming biennium, see Appendix X.

FAITHFUL PERFORMANCE BOND

All Florida National Guard personnel responsible for property and/or funds, and all employees of the Military Department, (not otherwise required by law to be bonded), are bonded in the sum of $2,500.00 by a Public Employees Faithful Performance Blanket Position Bond. Each employee or responsible individual is bonded upon assumption of duty and remains covered by bond until cleared of all property and funds after being terminated from position.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION INSURANCE

The Military Department is a self-insuror for employees paid from General Revenue Appropriation, and carries Workmen's Compensation on those employees paid from Armory Board Trust Fund, and Camp Blanding Management Fund. During the fiscal years 1959 and 1960, a total of six (6) claims in the amount of $135.30 were paid as self-insuror, and a total of twenty-eight (28) claims were submitted to the insurance carrier for workmen's compensation claims filed on behalf of employees paid from the above cited Trust Funds.

STRENGTH

ARMY NATIONAL GUARD

The Congress provided for an Army National Guard strength overall of 400,000 in the appropriations bills for fiscal year 1959, of which Florida was assigned a strength of 6,935. By fiscal year end 30 June 1959, Florida had attained an actual strength of 6,989.

Again in fiscal year 1960, the 400,000 strength figure was provided by the Congress with Florida receiving a strength of 7,338 from the National Guard Bureau. As of 30 June 1960, this was exceeded with an actual strength of 7,462.

The State entered fiscal year 1960, with an allotted strength of 7,461. The recruiting activity that resulted in an aggregate of 9,038 gains required to offset total losses of 8,204 for the biennium, is shown in Appendix XI. Reference there to allotted strength represents the imposed ceiling strength.

AIR NATIONAL GUARD

The Congress authorized 76,000 strength for the nation's Air National Guard during the similar period. Of this total, Florida was allocated 808 by the National Guard Bureau. Strength of the Florida Air National Guard remains reasonably static in contrast to the fluctuation of the Army National Guard.

SUMMARY

Reorganizational changes during 1959 and 1960, resulted in an aggregate troop basis of 11,968 for Army National Guard, and 808 for Air National Guard for Florida. For statistical data, see Appendix XI (Part III).

RESERVE OFFICER PERSONNEL ACT OF 1954

The Reserve Officer Personnel Act of 1954, as enacted and amended by the Congress, establishes elimination of officers, based upon age, total length of commissioned service, and time in grade. This law was implemented within the National Guard on 1 July 1960. Three officers of the Florida National Guard have already been eliminated under its provisions. Studies being made as to the effect on the Florida National Guard are not complete, but it is indicated that approximately one hundred officers will be affected by this Act, during the fiscal year 1961, and unless promoted, will be eliminated from the service. The purpose of this law is to continually revitalize the officer corps of the National Guard in order that it be ready for combat at all times. It is necessary that vigorous steps be taken to replenish the officer corps with qualified young officers.

STATEMENTS OF SERVICE

The Personnel Section of the Military Department maintains all available records of the soldiers of Florida, beginning during the Indian Wars of 1835. While many of the older records are not complete, the records of the National Guard since 1926 are considered to be reasonably complete. From these records, official statements of service are prepared.

Requests for statements of service covering the earlier wars are initiated by descendants of veterans who are interested in geneology. Requests for the later periods are for the purpose of establishing service required for current benefits under Federal and State laws, based upon such service.

PUBLICATIONS, REPRODUCTIONS, AND MAIL SECTION

The Publications, Reproductions, and Mail Section, under the supervision of the Headquarters Adjutant, functions under current Department of The Army publications, and those policies and procedures as established by The Adjutant General, State of Florida.

During the two years period, 1 January 1959 through 31 December 1960, the 41,000 stock record cards maintained in the Publications Section reflect that approximately 41,600 new publications and blank forms were distributed on an initial basis to some 135 units and accounts. In addition, this section processed 9,622 Unit Requisitions for additional and/or replacement publications and blank forms, comprising approximately 34,595 separate line items of forms and publications. During this same period, this section received 10,883 items of publications and blank forms from DA publications Depots, and processed 2,964 packages for delivery to National Guard units and accounts. The receipt and distribution of recruiting and/or publicity material, the maintenance and distribution of some 750 Equipment Parts Lists (check lists), and the stockage and issuance of State and Federal forms, are also the responsibility of this section.

The Reproductions Section is responsible for the multilith and mimeograph processing of all State and/or Florida National Guard Circulars, Bulletins, form letters, Special Orders, General Orders, Standing Operating Procedures, and Armory Construction Contracts, and for the microfilm processing of all official Military Department records to include correspondence, Special Orders, Morning Reports, and historical records. This section is also responsible for the xerograph processing of master offset plates for multilith reproductions and xerocopies of reproductions for legal documents, official correspondence, and drawings. During the two years period, 1 January 1959 through 31 December 1960, this section processed 11,794 multilith and mimeograph stencils, producing 2,498,510 impressions. In addition, this section processed 6,400 feet of microfilm, producing 80,143 microfilm images, and processed 1,683 xerocopy reproductions.

The Headquarters Mail Section is responsible for the receipt and distribution of all incoming mail, the processing of all outgoing mail for delivery to the U. S. Post Office, and for the inter-headquarters messenger mail service. This section also prepares and maintains an Addressograph plate file for all units of the Florida Army and Air National Guard, all Departmental agencies, and individuals to whom mail is processed. During the two years period, 1 January 1959 through 31 December 1960, this section processed 163,520 individual pieces of mail packages.

THIRD ARMY NATIONAL GUARD DIVISION TRAINING TROPHY

This Trophy, established by the Commanding General, Third United States Army for Award to the outstanding National Guard Division in the Third Army Area each Calendar Year, was awarded to the 48th Armored Division, (Florida and Georgia), for the third consecutive year in 1959. This award, covering all phases of the Administrative and Training Fields, reflects very favorably of the 48th Armored Division and the standards of the Florida Army National Guard.

EFFICIENCY AWARDS

The National Guard Award for Efficiency in Training is awarded each Calendar Year to all Army National Guard Units that obtained an Annual Training Evaluation Rating of Superior or Excellent during the Summer Field Training Period. During Calendar Year 1959, 35 Florida Army National Guard Units were awarded an Annual Rating of Superior, and 36 Excellent. In Calendar Year 1960, 11 Units were awarded Superior Ratings, and 67 Excellent. (For list of Units receiving subject awards, see Appendix XIV.)

TRAINING

Despite reorganization of the major part of the Florida Army National Guard during the biennium, the current level of training is high and continues to show significant improvement. Training parallels that of the active Army, is evaluated by active Army standards, and Service School type instruction is emulated in an effort to attain and retain the desired professional posture.

The efficiency and high state of training achieved were dramatically demonstrated by the outstanding performance and service rendered by units called to Active State Duty during the emergency created by 1960's Hurricane Donna. Effective and complete Alert, and Mobilization Plans, required of all units, helped materially in the rapid assembling, and subsequent performance of these units.

Soldiers of the 50th Quartermaster Group on patrol at Key Colony Beach following Hurricane Donna.

All personnel of the Florida Army National Guard receive training designed to attain a maximum degree of proficiency. Such training results in units and personnel available to the nation or State in time of emergency which are capable of combat operations, qualified in military occupational specialties, physically and mentally fit, and indoctrinated in the role they must perform in State or Federal active duty.

The Florida Army National Guard has progressed from Basic Individual Combat Training through Advanced Individual Training in the past two years. Units currently are undergoing Basic Unit Training. As squads or comparable units reach proficiency, personnel advance to platoon level training in a continuing program which provides opportunities for new leaders to develop, and assures constructive integration of the newcomer.

Standards of training are constantly being upgraded by consistent emphasis on better scheduling of training periods, the improvement of lesson plans, and more effective instructional methods and techniques. The recent inauguration of an evaluation system with a rating form for each instructional period has materially improved the presentation of material and the effectiveness of practical work. The progress of training has been assisted by ample training aids and films available on a loan basis from the Third United States Army.

Great emphasis has been placed on radio communications, with units now operating Third Army approved Statewide emergency and training radio nets on a daily scheduled basis. During Hurricane Donna, such communication training and nets proved invaluable in maintaining contact in areas where normal communication facilities were disrupted.

The inception of the Reserve Force Act, familiarly known as the "6 months active duty training program", has markedly increased the number of personnel qualified in their military occupational specialty. Individuals now receive their basic individual combat training, and advanced individual training in active Army Training Centers in six months of intensive instruction. As of 31 August 1960, out of a total assigned strength of 7,239, 6,639 personnel were qualified in military occupational specialties, and 6,896 qualified with individual weapons.

The Florida National Guard is emphasizing weekend training periods for maximum utilization of manpower and greater economy and effectiveness of available funds for training. Although there has been some opposition to weekend training, command influence, leadership and direction, and a realization that the personal cost of preparedness is going up, have made it possible to carry out this training program with effectiveness and enthusiasm. Individuals now receive their basic individual combat training, and advanced individual training in active Army Training Centers in six months of intensive instruction. As of 31 August 1960, out of a total assigned strength of 7,239, 6,639 personnel were qualified in military occupational specialties, and 6,896 qualified with individual weapons.

The Florida National Guard is emphasizing weekend training periods for maximum utilization of manpower and greater economy and effectiveness of available funds for training. Although there has been some opposition to weekend training, command influence, leadership and direction, and a realization that the personal cost of preparedness is going up, have made it possible to carry out this training program with effectiveness and enthusiasm. Small arms marksmanship, unit tactics and maintenance of equipment are particularly suited to such periods and lead to better preparation towards more advanced training during annual active duty periods. A commendable phase of such weekend periods has been the Chaplain participation for spiritual and moral guidance of personnel. Where chaplain services are not available, personnel are excused from training to attend religious services of their choice. Attendance at churches of groups in uniform has reflected favorably on individuals, and the National Guard.

Throughout the Florida National Guard, top echelon command guidance, as reflected in personal directives from major commanders to subordinate elements, continues to be active, vigorous, and effective.

Continuous staff training at battalion, battle group, combat command, group and division levels, the latter to include personnel from Georgia and South Carolina, serves to train staff officers as members of a functional staff rather than as independent individuals. A program of collective staff exercises, command post exercises, and use of staff officers in functional staff visits to units is maintained to develop proper staff officers, and to promote mutual understanding between the staff and lower echelons. Staff officers achieve additional training and proficiency through planning of all troop movements from Armories to sites of annual active duty training and return.

The complexity and cost of equipment issued to Florida Army National Guard units makes essential the attendance of selected officers and enlisted men at Active Army Schools for maintenance and operation. Attendance at such schools has been utilized to the maximum permitted by allotted funds.

The annual active duty training periods, approximately one-half of which are spent in field bivouac under combat conditions, provide an excellent testing ground for the individual and collective knowledge and skills acquired during the year's Armory and weekend training, as well as an opportunity to integrate related subjects into the training program. Heavy equipment such as tanks, armored personnel carriers, and howitzers are maneuvered, and firing practice of large calibre guns is conducted.

The overall training efforts have been assisted by the establishment of heavy equipment concentration sites at active duty training stations which provide National Guard units with such equipment that could not accompany units because of size or type. Since fund limitations precluded commercial transportation, overland travel by convoy was utilized to carry troops to camp. In some instances, training suffered because of the resulting reduction in actual training days at camp sites.

In both 1959 and 1960, Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, Florida Army National Guard, was divided into groups and supported the major commands of the Guard at widely scattered training sites. Active duty for training during these periods, with details on training sites and dates, is shown in Appendix XV. In 1959, attendance at summer field training was 6,550; for 1960, attendance was 6,654.

In 1959, the 48th Armored Division, composed of elements from Florida and Georgia, won for the third time the Third United States Army National Guard Division Training Trophy. Within this Division, the excellence of the Florida troops is evidenced in the fact that in ratings earned during 1960 active duty training, for every branch represented in the Florida part, a Florida battalion was the best of its type in the entire Division.

48th Armored Division (Florida Part)

In 1959, the 48th Armored Division, composed of elements from Florida and Georgia, won for the third time the Third United States Army National Guard Division Training Trophy. Within this Division, the excellence of the Florida troops is evidenced in the fact that in ratings earned during 1960 active duty training, for every branch represented in the Florida part, a Florida battalion was the best of its type in the entire Division.

Noteworthy in this Division's training are its field command post exercises held on weekends at Camp Blanding. In keeping with the traditional role of armor—great mobility and wide dispersion—these exercises are in the form of free maneuver, conducted from mobile command posts using a maximum of radio communications, and paced to the tempo of modern nuclear warfare. Commanders and staffs from company to division level receive effective command training in this manner without interfering with normal supervision of training.

Great strides have been made in the user maintenance and operation of signal equipment and particularly in the use of radios. Through command emphasis and application of maintenance and operational techniques, the effective range of radio equipment has been extended considerably and is approaching maximum capability.

51st Infantry Division (Florida Part)

The reorganization of this Division to the Pentomic Concept in April 1959, had a marked effect on the entire training program. Commanders and staffs responded to the problem of reorganization with professional vigor and units adapted to their new roles with enthusiasm.

Annual active duty for training afforded an appropriate vehicle for the employment of the Brigade Headquarters which provided for the first time an element for separate planning and conduct of special tasks without decimating the division staff. In 1960 annual active duty training, the Brigade under the Assistant Division Commander conducted training of divisional elements physically divorced from the command, thereby freeing the Division Commander and staff for undivided supervision of the remainder of the Division's training.

50th Quartermaster Group

In April 1959, the 50th Quartermaster Group and two attached Transportation Battalions were created from units of the combat arms. As technical service units, these are progressing satisfactorily in their new roles, and all officers and warrant officers have qualified in their respective fields through attendance at branch service schools, or by branch extension courses. During 1960 active duty for training, these units performed on-the-job training with like active Army units which greatly enhanced the overall concept of technical training and service. This was the first time in National Guard history that National Guard troops trained with active Army units at the U. S. Army Quartermaster Training Command, Fort Lee, Virginia.

Summary

Training continues to show improvement in all phases of activity. The Florida Army National Guard is prepared to carry out the missions prescribed by the State, Third United States Army, United States Continental Army Command and Department of The Army.

SCHOOL PROGRAM

The participation of Florida Army National Guard officer and enlisted personnel in the School Program during this biennium reached an all time high. The School Program, with minor exceptions, was supported entirely from Federal funds, and records reveal that during the years 1959 and 1960, the program was participated in by 456 officers and 267 enlisted personnel. Included in the School Program are Army Service Schools, Army Area Schools, Special Army Exercises, and Special Courses of Instruction.

The School Program was utilized for the training of newly commissioned officers, advanced and/or refresher training of other officers, and the specialized and advanced training of enlisted personnel. (See Appendix XVI for School Program statistics for this biennium.)

SIX MONTHS ACTIVE DUTY TRAINING PROGRAM

Because of lack of receipt of firm input quotas and sudden increases in established quotas during fiscal year 1959, the State of Florida was able to forward to the Six Months Active Duty Training Program only 750 individuals, although by the end of the year 884 spaces had been allotted. This program is mandatory for enlistment of non-prior service personnel.

Realizing the difficulties the States were experiencing under the constantly changing requirements, the National Guard Bureau at the beginning of fiscal year 1960 attempted to assign realistic quotas and to advise of increases in quotas sufficiently in advance to permit proper planning and recruiting by the States.

Florida entered fiscal year 1960 with 819 spaces, later increased to 1,180. The State filled 1,120 of these spaces with the remaining 60 lost, for the most part, due to last minute cancellations for illness, injury or hardship cases that time did not permit substitutions. Since the initiation of the program through 30 June 1960, Florida has forwarded 3,192 trainees to the program. Statistical data relative to Six Months Active Duty Training Program is in Appendix XVII.

FEDERAL FUNDS AND EQUIPMENT

The United States Government through the National Guard Bureau allocates Federal funds approved by Congress annually to the State of Florida, for training, administration, supply and maintenance of the Florida Army National Guard.

In addition to the Federal funds, Army equipment is loaned to the State of Florida. The equipment remains the property of the United States Government until properly disposed of or returned to the Department of the Army.

The State is provided with an officer whose title is the United States Property and Fiscal Officer for Florida. It is this officer's duty to supervise all details which pertain to the administration of Federal funds and the maintenance of property records covering all military equipment and property furnished the State by the Federal Government on a loan basis. The U.S.P. &

F.O. for Florida is charged with the responsibility of assuring the Adjutant General, and the Chief, National Guard Bureau that the maximum of authorized equipment, consistent with training needs, is requisitioned or purchased from the proper supply agencies, and that such equipment is made available to the Army National Guard units of the State of Florida, in order that they may be adequately equipped to carry out their training assignment. The U.S.P. & F.O. for Florida also maintains accounting records for the Federal funds allocated to the State and insures the proper expenditure.

During fiscal years 1959 and 1960, Federal funds in excess of $11,000,000.00 were expended in this State in support of the Florida Army National Guard. The value of military equipment loaned to the State of Florida by the Federal Government decreased from $22,000,000.00 to $18,000,000.00, due to the conversion of the Army National Guard units to the Pentomic concept and the lateral redistribution of equipment, particularly vehicles to other States. Stock levels of supplies and equipment have been reduced to actual usage factors in almost all instances, thus reducing excess supplies and equipment about $5,000,000.00.

For statistics on expenditures during Fiscal Years 1959 and 1960, and dollar value of equipment on loan to the State of Florida, as pertains to the Army National Guard, see Appendix XVIII.

MAINTENANCE OF FEDERAL PROPERTY

Even though items to equip units are furnished by the Federal Government, it is the State's responsibility to maintain such equipment in a combat serviceable condition at all times. This is accomplished by full time maintenance technicians and funds for repair parts, both supported by appropriations from Department of Defense, through the National Guard Bureau.

During the biennium, our maintenance structure and organization has undergone some changes. The Storage Section, Maintenance Division, was deleted from authorized activities during the latter part of 1958, and disbandment was completed in October 1959. In lieu of this activity, Administrative Storage Compounds were authorized at each Organizational Maintenance Shop for Battalion and Battle Group use. Personnel from the storage activity at Camp Blanding were transferred to the several Organizational Maintenance Shop locations, resulting in an increase in maintenance technicians at that level from 43 to 54. These technicians are assigned to Battalion and Battle Group size units for command control. (For listing of Organizational Maintenance Shops, location and number of technicians presently employed, see Appendix XIX.)

The Combined Field Maintenance Shop at Camp Blanding has experienced a loss of personnel from a total of 69 to 51. Factors contributing to this reduction are reorganization of units, with resulting loss of highly sensitive equipment, and a redistribution of equipment nationwide directed by the National Guard Bureau. Personnel authorization is based on equipment on hand, and the loss of critical items reduced the number of justified maintenance technicians.

The Army Aviation Maintenance Section, with a main shop at Thomas Cole Imeson Airport, Jacksonville, and a sub-shop at Tampa, had an increase of 2 technicians, for a total of 10. This increase is due to additional aircraft having been received in the State.

All maintenance technician programs are supported by 85% of the authorized criteria, and the number employed represents that figure.

Maintenance facilities have improved since 1958, with the completion of an office for the State Maintenance Officer and administrative staff (approximately $7,000.00); an addition to the Combined Field Maintenance Shop ($167,000.00); and a new building for OMS Nr. 7 (approximately $20,000.00), all at Camp Blanding. New construction for OMS Nr. 8 (Lake City), OMS Nr. 11 (St. Augustine), OMS Nr. 13 (St. Petersburg), OMS Nr. 14 (Sarasota), and OMS Nr. 17 (Cedar Hills, Jacksonville), together with additions and modifications of existing facilities at OMS Nr. 2 (Tampa), OMS No. 6 (Bonifay), and OMS Nr. 16 (Jacksonville) have improved working conditions and capabilities.

Safety is stressed at all maintenance activities, and the total time lost due to injury of personnel by accidents for the period was 278 hours, or .08% of the total time available.

In accomplishing the field maintenance mission for the State, a total of 1,566 man days were expended in travel for the purpose of furnishing technical assistance, performing inspections, and emergency repairs of equipment.

During the period, technicians from the Maintenance Division attended Service Schools and manufacturer's courses of instruction to improve technical qualification and capabilities. A total of 42 man months were used for this program.

(See Appendix XX for recapitulation of operations in the various maintenance activities.)

GENERAL

The years of 1959-1960, were years of continued advancement and improvement for the Florida Air National Guard. All established goals in strength manning and training have been attained. The mission of the Florida Air National Guard, both State and Federal, has remained unchanged.

The aggregate authorized strength of the 125th Fighter Group (Air Defense) is 796. Total manning for both officers and airmen is approximately 95 percent. This figure is approximately 5 percent over desired manning, and reflects recent enlistment efforts directed toward filling quotas for an anticipated reorganization and a resulting increase in total authorized strength. Recruiting of only the highest caliber personnel continues at the Florida Air National Guard, and has raised the overall morale and esprit de corps. In the more technical career fields, prospective enlistees are not accepted for enlistment unless they agree to attend the appropriate school conducted by the U. S. Air Force.

Aircraft Conversion

On 1 July 1959, the group converted from the F-86D to the F-86L. Although the F-86L is a later model aircraft with improved radio and navigational aids, the conversion did not prove to be at all difficult, and extensive retraining was not necessary. On 1 July 1960, the group began converting to F-102A aircraft. The F-102A is a much faster aircraft—one of the fastest in the present USAF inventory. It is also much more complex and requires extensive retraining for all maintenance personnel.

F-102A "Delta Dagger" all weather interceptor, supersonic aircraft—primary weapons of the Florida Air National Guard.

TRAINING

Objectives

The objectives of the training program are to attain and maintain the high degree of operational readiness consistent with successful performance of the Air Defense Command Mission.

School Training

School training is conducted at schools of the regular service. All non-prior service enlistees are required to attend regular Air Force Basic Training. When feasible, they are required to attend the technical school related to their chosen Air Force Specialty. This program provides an excellent opportunity for these men to obtain the necessary technical background for subsequent advancement within their career fields and at the same time provides many with experience which has proven helpful in civilian life. This program is very popular with both the section supervisors and the individual concerned and is evidenced by constant requests for advanced technical training. Although it is sometimes difficult to obtain all the technical school spaces requested, this is not considered a problem area. (For details on Service Schools and Special Training Courses attended during the biennium, see Appendix XXI.)

In addition to the school program, members of the Florida Air National Guard are eligible for enrollment in courses offered by the Extension Course Institute. The Extension Course Institute program is one of the media provided by the Air Force whereby officers and airmen can voluntarily satisfy many of their individual training needs. The aim of the program is to assist individuals to progress within their respective career fields. In 1959, 264 members applied for these extension courses and in 1960, 251 applied.

Field Training 1959

In 1959, field training was conducted at Travis Field, Savannah, Georgia during the period 7-21 June. Excellent pre-camp planning resulted in a highly successful summer encampment.

Field Training 1959

In 1959, field training was conducted at Travis Field, Savannah, Georgia during the period 7-21 June. Excellent pre-camp planning resulted in a highly successful summer encampment.

All training objectives were met with little or no difficulty. Thunderstorms on some occasions forced cancellation of afternoon flying activity; however, cancelled flights were rescheduled and completed. All flying training commitments were met.

Field Training 1960

Field Training for 1960 was conducted during the period 19 June through 3 July. Inasmuch as this unit was programmed at this time for an early conversion to F-102A aircraft, most aircraft maintenance and pilot training was centered around this proposed conversion. Formal classroom instruction was presented to all pilots and mechanics by a regular Air Force F-102A Pilot; a Pratt and Whitney technical representative, and by airmen borrowed from the 482nd Fighter Interceptor Squadron at Seymour-Johnson Air Force Base, North Carolina. In addition, arrangements were made to have several F-102A aircraft flown in for use by the instructors in explaining system operation. Despite the concentrated F-102A aircraft ground training during summer field training, the flight training commitments in the unit mission aircraft (F-86L) were accomplished.

Unit Training

Unit training is conducted in accordance with unit training directives and includes on-the-job training which provides for normal progression to higher skill levels for assigned personnel. The group training program continually receives excellent ratings during both Federal and Operational Readiness Inspections.

Summer encampments have provided excellent opportunities for personnel of all career fields to train for their career field specialties. Members of the Air National Guard must take the same tests required for their regular Air Force counterparts, and since an identical grading system is used, the airmen must be proficient to the same extent. Passing percentages for these tests continue to remain at a high figure.

Supplemental Training Exercises

Supplemental training exercises include aircrew weapons employment consisting of rocketry, accelerated pilot transition for newly assigned pilots, and exercises and alerts conducted by the Adjutant General, the National Guard Bureau, and the Air Defense Command. Joint Strategic Air Command and Air Defense Command exercises are conducted one weekend each month and provide excellent training for ground and air crew personnel.

Air Defense Command Alert Program

The 125th Fighter Group (AD) assumed the Air Defense Command Alert commitment for the Jacksonville area on a sunrise-to-sunset basis in January 1957. In October 1958, this commitment was increased to an around-the-clock basis. In participating in an alert commitment, it is required that 3 tactical aircraft are maintained in an alert ready status, capable of becoming airborne within 5 minutes of a signal. This requires that 3 pilots, as well as the necessary ground crewmen, be on standby. Whenever the alerting authority is notified that an unidentified aircraft is within the 125th Fighter Group surveillance area, an alert is declared by the automatic sounding of a horn at the alert hangar. The horn indicates a hot scramble, and pilots and crews immediately run to the alert aircraft which are fully armed and ready for starting. The first aircraft is immediately started and is expected to be airborne within 5 minutes of the time that the horn is sounded. The second pilot remains in his aircraft so that in case of an abort he can perform the flight, and a third aircraft is immediately brought to the alert area and manned. An average of 50 hot scrambles are performed each month, and only on very rare occasions has the aircraft failed to become airborne within the prescribed 5 minutes. The 125th Fighter Group has never refused a scramble and has been recognized by the regular Air Force for its accomplishments and responsibilities in the alert commitment.

Small Arms Marksmanship Training

The National Guard Bureau has recently directed that a marksmanship training program be established for all Air National Guard personnel. Firing range facilities at Imeson Airport, Jacksonville, Florida, and at Travis Field, Savannah, Georgia, were used for this purpose. All personnel received small arms marksmanship training during the biennium. The marksmanship training program will be conducted annually for all Air National Guard personnel.

FEDERAL FUNDS AND EQUIPMENT

Through the National Guard Bureau, the United States Government allocates Federal funds to the Florida Air National Guard. The United States Property and Fiscal Officer for Florida is charged with directing all details as pertains to the administration of Federal funds and maintenance of accountable records covering all military equipment and property loaned to Florida by the Federal Government. The United States Property and Fiscal Officer is charged with the responsibility of insuring that the maximum of authorized equipment, consistent with training needs, is secured from proper agencies of the Air Force, and is made available to the Air National Guard units. He maintains accounting records of the Federal funds allocated to the State and insures proper expenditure. During 1959 and 1960, Federal funds in excess of $3,000,000.00 were expended for the operation of the Air National Guard of Florida. In addition, the value of the military equipment loaned now exceeds $30,000,000.00, which is $19,000,000.00 more than reported in the last biennium.

During 1959 and 1960, the Air National Guard underwent two aircraft conversions which greatly increased the inventory and cost of operation. June 1959 saw a conversion from F-86D to F-86L aircraft. This was not a major conversion, but did increase the inventory considerably since the F-86L had the data link system for all weather fighter-interceptor missions. This system required an increase of electronic parts and equipment, which raised the net worth of warehouse stock to about $1,500,000.00, compared to a $1,000,000.00 inventory on F-86D's.

In July 1960, conversion of a major nature to F-102A supersonic fighters and TF-102A trainers came, and the unit faced a new supply concept in the Weapons System Manager account that went with the aircraft. The aircraft, spare parts, ground support equipment, and test equipment are closely controlled by the Weapons System Manager and has a zero AOCP (Aircraft Out of Commission for Parts) objective. The basic cost of the F-102A of $1,250,000.00 against the cost of the F-86L at $237,000.00 is a good comparison to show the great increase in spares, equipment, and supplies required to maintain the aircraft. The warehouse inventory has already reached $2,500,000.00 and is expected to level off at about an average of $3,000,000.00.

The supply system met the problem of supply by converting all requisitioning and the majority of the reporting procedures to IBM punch cards for greater speed and efficiency. Supply personnel, both Air Technicians and Trainees, have met the challenge of greater volume and more complex supply procedures with enthusiasm and a great deal of anticipation for what the future holds with the F-102A aircraft.

For statistics on expenditures during Fiscal Years 1959 and 1960, and dollar value of equipment on loan to the State of Florida, as pertains to the Air National Guard, see Appendix XXII.

MAINTENANCE

The 125th Fighter Group (Air Defense) employs approximately 112 air technicians to perform maintenance service at its base, Imeson Airport, Jacksonville, Florida. These maintenance personnel perform all organizational and much of the field maintenance on both the primary mission and support mission aircraft; the numerous pieces of weapon support equipment; all motor vehicles, including fire and crash equipment; the flight simulator and base communications system, which also includes radio-teletype and point-to-point radio systems. Also recently added, were the maintenance and test facilities for the Falcon air-to-air missile.

During the year 1959, the 125th Fighter Group converted from the F-86D all-weather interceptor to the F-86L, a refined version of the same aircraft. During 1960, the group converted from the F-86L to the F-102A "Delta Dagger" all-weather interceptor, referred to as the F-102A Weapons System. Through this conversion the Maintenance Section was faced with and successfully solved the problems of training its personnel for the much advanced and highly technical Weapons System. Many visits were made by key personnel to bases operating this type aircraft to obtain aid in planning for training and necessary support and test equipment. Many of the personnel were sent to resident schools of the Air Force for periods of 2 to 4 weeks. An Air Force Mobile Training Detachment was brought to this base for a period of six months and all personnel enrolled and successfully completed training in their respective fields. Through this period it was necessary to continue operation of the F-86L aircraft and to maintain the Air Defense Command alert on a 24 hour basis.

The aircraft maintenance section was required to increase the number of maintenance personnel, particularly in the support equipment field, and to add one new field, that of missile maintenance.

The experience level of all maintenance personnel is being maintained at a high level through the use of technical schools, mobile training schools, and a vigorous on-the-job training program.

NATIONAL GUARD OFFICERS ASSOCIATION OF FLORIDA

The National Guard Officers Association of Florida has been in existence since 1902. It consists of all officers and warrant officers of the Florida Army and Air National Guard. The organization is run upon a democratic basis with the officers being elected by the membership. Committee meetings are held from time to time throughout the year, and a general conference is convened annually at some location within the State. The purpose of the organization is the discussion and promulgation of legislation, both State and National; the advancement of the professional status of the National Guard; and for the widening of acquaintance among the officers and wives of the various commands in the State. The annual conferences consist of business sessions during the day with the social functions in the evening.

This Association has 100% membership of all active National Guard officers. Even though the members attend the annual conferences at their own expense, 67% were present at the last conference. During this biennium, the 57th Annual Conference was held at the Orange Blossom Hotel in Sarasota, and the 58th Annual Conference was held at the Hotel Ponce de Leon in St. Augustine. I am the Guard Civilian in Peace, Soldier in War... of security and honor, for three centuries I have been the custodian, I am the Guard.

I was with Washington in the dim forests, fought the wily warrior, and watched the dark night bow to the morning. At Concord's bridge, I fired the fateful shot heard 'round the world. I bled on Bunker Hill. My footprints marked the snows at Valley Forge. I pulled a muffled oar on the barge that bridged the icy Delaware. I stood with Washington on the sun-drenched heights of Yorktown. I saw the sword surrendered... I am the Guard. I pulled the trigger that loosed the long rifle's havoc at New Orleans. These things I knew—I was there! I saw both sides of the War between the States—I was there! The hill at San Juan felt the fury of my charge. The far plains and mountains of the Philippines echoed to my shout... On the Mexican border I stood... I am the Guard. The dark forest of the Argonne blazed with my barrage. Chateau Thierry crumbled to my cannonade. Under the arches of victory I marched in legion—I was there! I am the Guard. I bowed briefly on the grim Corregidor, then saw the light of liberation shine on the faces of my comrades. Through the jungle and on the beaches, I fought the enemy, beat, battered and broke him. I raised our banner to the serene air on Okinawa—I scrambled over Normandy's beaches—I was there!... I am the Guard. Across the 38th Parallel I made my stand. I flew MIG Alley—I was there!... I am the Guard.

Soldier in war, civilian in peace... I am the Guard.

I was at Johnstown, where the raging waters boomed down the valley. I cradled the crying child in my arms and saw the terror leave her eyes. I moved through smoke and flame at Texas City. The stricken knew the comfort of my skill. I dropped the food that fed the starving beast on the frozen fields of the west and through the towering drifts I ploughed to rescue the marooned. I have faced forward to the tornado, the typhoon, and the horror of the hurricane and flood—these things I know—I was there!... I am the Guard. I have brought a more abundant, a fuller, a finer life to our youth. Wherever a strong arm and valiant spirit must defend the Nation, in peace or war, wherever a child cries, or a woman weeps in time of disaster, there I stand... I am the Guard. For three centuries a soldier in war, a civilian in peace—of security and honor, I am the custodian, now and forever... I am the Guard.
